January 22, 1973-January 22, 2013 40 Years of Abortion In Memory of the Babies who have been Killed by Abortion Since the 1973 Supreme Court Decision Legalizing Abortion

It has been forty years of Roe Vs. Wade. Nearly 56 million legal abortions later! Bus loads of students and adults will journey to and from Washington DC. Many will visit our Representatives and Senators, protest in front of the Supreme Court, and Planned Parenthood. On Friday Noon January 25, nearly one-half million will gather in memory of the those lost to abortion and pray for our leaders, so they may have a change of heart and support life and not killing of the unborn.

We join our nation in mourning the deaths of over 50 million innocent lives lost to abortion. We acknowledge the pain and anguish suffered by the many mothers and fathers who now regret that fateful decision. We pray for their healing. We only wish that mothers coming into abortion chambers could see the “window into the womb” so they could see what they are carrying. If they could see, we believe they would choose life, not abortion. Please join with us in this battle to save the lives of the unborn. Support the efforts of the Right to Life Organization in this important mission.

“Abortion May Be Legal, But It is Still Morally wrong!”

40 Years, 55 Million Dead: Pro-Lifers Say Roe Must Go by Steven Ertelt

The infamous Roe v. Wade Supreme Court decision marks 40 years today—a birthday featuring no cakes, balloons or gifts for 55 million unborn children who have lost their lives. Roe vs. Wade, and its companion case Doe v. Bolton, ushered in an era of legalized abortions that can be done virtually any time during pregnancy for any reason with some exceptions if the state has approved modest limits on them. Although Roe reaches 40 today, leading pro-life advocates say they are renewing their commitment to change the makeup of the Supreme Court, so Roe is reversed and states can once again provide legal protection for unborn children.

“Let today be the beginning of the end for the terrifying 40-year legacy of Roe v. Wade. Protecting the unborn and restoring a culture of life in our nation has never been more important,” says Penny Nance of Concerned Women for America.

Nance says, “The beginning of the end can be found through getting taxpayer dollars out of the abortion industry. Abortionists across the nation are padding their coffers with exorbitant sums of money from our government. Abortion is big business — ‘business’ supported by your tax dollars,” she explained. “For example, according to their recently released annual report, in 2012 alone Planned Parenthood received a staggering $542 million in government funding. It performed 333,964 abortions ... one every 94 seconds ... abortions you helped pay for.”

more than 55 million unborn children and harmed a generation of women. AUL has a winning legal strategy that is gathering momentum and overtaking a losing proposition.”

Yoest continued: “On this sad day we have to wonder who we are missing? With so many women and their unborn children injured and lost to abortion, we reflect on the importance of pressing on. We remain determined to advance a sound legal strategy and committed to working toward a day when every person is welcomed in life and protected in law.”

The legal team of Americans United for Life has been involved in every life-related case before the Supreme Court beginning with Roe v. Wade. AUL went on to develop “the pro-life playbook,” Defending Life, a guidebook of model legislation for office holders who want to enact reasonable limits on abortion.

As a result of Roe, the United States is one of the four nations with the most radical abortion policies in the world, Yoest told LifeNews. The U.S. stands with North Korea, China and Canada in allowing abortion through all 9 months of pregnancy, for any reason (such as sex selection) and sometimes with government subsidies. Most of the world’s 195 nations limit abortion after 20 weeks because of the dangers of that late-term procedure. “We are advancing the winning formula for reversing Roe,” she said.

While some Americans may be hopeless about ending abortion, Mark Crutcher of Life Dynamics says the pro-life movement has been successful in stopping abortions even within the confines of legalized abortion. “When I started Life Dynamics in 1992, there were over 2,100 abortion clinics in America. Today, there are just over 600, and most of those that remain are gasping for air. But be assured, if the pro-life movement had never existed, there could easily be one in every mall and strip shopping center in the country,” he said.

Americans United for Life president Charmaine Yoest said on the 40th anniversary of the infamous Roe v. Wade decision that AUL’s legislative strategy of creating model legislation that erodes the flawed reasoning of Roe “is undermining a flawed and fatal decision that has led to the deaths of

What the Catholic Church is “Not Doing” to Turn their Members to Pro-Life

The results in the final Gallup poll showed Catholics favoring Obama 52 to 45 percent. That makes it appear the Catholic Church leaders need to do more to engage nominal Catholics who do not attend religious services frequently and may be less likely to embrace the pro-life views and teachings of the Church. Of course the question is if you can’t get them to church, how can you educate them.

“The collision course of the Obama Administration with the Catholic Church could have been averted, but now it is assured instead,” says Father Frank Pavone of Priests for Life responded. “Many in Church leadership failed to connect the dots between personnel and policy. They prayed and preached against the HHS mandate, but then were silent about the election, and called the police to remove citizens who put voter guides on cars in Church parking lots trying to inform voters about where the candidates stood on this issue.” How can we change the laws if we ignore who is running for office. All Churches can and must inform their members not to vote for people running for office who are pro-abortion. Churches don’t have to endorse candidates, just inform the voters who is pro-life.

We also could have used louder voices among our clergy and our bishops - fewer confusing alphabetical voter guides from the NCCB and more insistence on the real life issues at stake.

Obama Celebrates 40 Years of Abortion, Praising Roe v. Wade

President Barack Obama issued a statement on January 22 celebrating the 40-year-old Roe v. Wade decision that allowed for virtually unlimited abortions. The decision, handed down on January 22, 1973, overturned pro-life laws offering protection for unborn children in most states across the country, and made abortions legal and virtually unlimited. Almost 56 million unborn children have been killed in abortions since. It was a day to mourn the culture of death that abortion has brought to our nation and our world. A culture that believes death is a solution for those who are considered too old or too ill. A culture that believes human life is a commodity to be created and manipulated. But not this President, instead of mourning, he celebrates this day!

Planned Parenthood: $1.2 Billion “Nonprofit,” $542 Million From Government

Americans often look with disdain on people who continually live off of government assistance. While those from left to right would generally concur that welfare programs can be helpful for those in times of crisis, the majority of people grow weary, and even angry, when people live off of Uncle Sam for years on end.

This reality makes it a mystery of why the tolerance of Planned Parenthood’s dependence on Uncle Sam (and Uncle Obama). As we reported, Planned Parenthood’s latest annual report for the 2011-2012 reporting year shows that abortions were up by a few thousand. A total of 333,964 babies were killed in Planned Parenthood affiliates last year, and our government has helped line the abortion giant’s pocketbooks.

It’s no secret that Planned Parenthood receives both state and federal taxpayer funds, but somehow seeing it in full color in a season of American budget crises and the impending 40th anniversary of Roe V. Wade, it seems to have more of an impact. A full 45% percent of Planned Parenthood’s funds are attracted to “Government Health Services Grants and Reimbursements.” This amounted to $542 million last year. While a drop in the bucket of our federal budget crisis, it does remind us that the government prioritizes an abortion provider, whether the money is “technically” for abortion or not, in a time of economic crisis.

Astoundingly, however, Planned Parenthood isn’t suffering for money. In fact, the same report declares an excess of $87.4 in revenue and $1.2 billion in assets. Planned Parenthood’s financial prosperity is aided in great part by its hefty governmental contributions. Clearly, it is a business doing well enough on its own, yet, like a person who bilks the system and takes from the real needy, Planned Parenthood openly takes its government handouts, builds up its assets, and kills its 333,964 liabilities.

The question we must ask is how this continues to happen even as public schools, charities and service organizations lose money. Is the nation really so unaware of the abundance of riches the abortion giant possesses? Or is it merely possessed by the media which makes it sound like a happy health organization?

There was much ado about the Time Magazine story last week when its cover announced that after winning Roe V. Wade, abortion activists had been “losing ever since.” Pro-lifers rejoiced that a mainstream media publication was declaring its victory. However, 55 million people, if they were allowed to think, would not think the abortion rights activists have been losing.

Are we winning? When we see a report like this from the number one provider of abortions in the nation, we dare not rest on the idea that Time says we’re winning because we keep introducing laws to restrict abortion. Certainly we have made extraordinary advances, but as someone pointed out, with the advances science has made, the question of life should have been settled a long time ago. Whether abortion is taking a life or not ought not even be a debate with the technology we have to show the beginning of life.

We aren’t winning until Planned Parenthood is defunded, until abortion is a bad chapter of history. We don’t win until the voiceless can speak. And as Planned Parenthood victoriously reported, 333,964 of them last year never got a chance to open their mouths.

Judge Dismisses Obama Admin Lawsuit Harassing Pro-Lifer

In a legal victory, a judge has stopped the Obama administration from targeting a peaceful pro-life advocate helping provide abortion alternatives to women heading to an abortion facility in Louisville, Kentucky.

In January 2010, David Hamilton was peacefully and lawfully handing literature to women entering EMW Surgical Center, an abortion clinic. He was not only interfered with illegally by abortion facility volunteers who locked arms to block him from talking to women, but he faced legal action from the Obama administration.

The Department of Justice prosecuted him for allegedly assaulting a volunteer who actually assaulted him. The “escort” attempted to forcibly block Hamilton to prevent him from sharing literature with women entering the clinic that explained other options to them.

Over a year after the date of the incident, rather than serving the clinic volunteer with a legal complaint for the illegal conduct, the Department of Justice served Hamilton with a legal complaint, alleging that he violated the Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act. The Life Legal Defense Foundation, a pro-life legal group, stepped in to provide Hamilton with legal support in court. The Obama administration lawsuit sought a $15,000 penalty and $5,000 in compensatory damages.

Today, the Life Legal Defense Foundation, a pro-life legal group, informed LifeNews that, three years after being unjustly arrested and then unjustly sued by the federal government, pro-life sidewalk counselor David Hamilton has ultimately won. The case has been dismissed without an injunction and without a fine.

NBC Poll Claiming Americans Favor Abortion is Grossly Misleading

by Joseph Agnes

On the 40th Anniversary of Roe v. Wade, the supporters of abortion in the mainstream media are working overtime to push their dishonest message to the public. A new NBC/Wall Street Journal poll showing alleged public support for Roe v. Wade—the headline screams “Majority, for first time, want abortion to be legal”—is a prime example of how the mainstream media often manipulates facts, data, and people.

The most objectionable point of the poll is found in its depiction on NBC News’ website. According to Mark Murray, NBC News’ Senior Political Editor, “[t]he 1973 Roe v. Wade decision established a woman’s constitutional right to an abortion, at least in the first three months of pregnancy.”

The poll itself depicted the Supreme Court decision the same way: “The Supreme Court’s 1973 Roe versus Wade decision established a woman’s constitutional right to an abortion, at least in the first three months of pregnancy.”

This is a gross depiction of the real facts of Roe v. Wade. As James Agresti, President of Just Facts, pointed out just days ago in taking down the recent Pew poll on public support for Roe:

The designers of the Pew poll boost support for the ruling by telling respondents: “In 1973 the Roe versus Wade decision established a woman’s constitutional right to an abortion, at least in the first three months of pregnancy. Would you like to see the Supreme Court completely overturn its Roe versus Wade decision, or not?”

That language is misleading because Roe v. Wade, along with its accompanying ruling, Doe v. Bolton, mandate that abortion be legal up until the point of birth if any one physician willing to perform an abortion says it is needed for “the preservation of the ... health of the mother.” Furthermore, Roe cites specific examples of what may be considered harmful to a mother’s health, such as the “stigma of unwed motherhood,” the work of “child care,” and “the distress, for all concerned, associated with the unwanted child.”

Likewise, Doe v. Bolton, which was issued by the Supreme Court on the same day as Roe v. Wade with an order that they “are to be read together,” states that “the medical judgment may be exercised in the light of all factors—physical, emotional, psychological, familial, and the woman’s age—relevant to the well-being of the patient. All these factors may relate to health.”

Thus, “health,” as defined by Roe v. Wade and Doe v. Bolton, provides broad leeway to perform abortions throughout pregnancy. In Roe v. Wade, the majority wrote that their ruling does not permit abortions “at whatever time, in whatever way, and for whatever reason” a woman chooses, but they provided no example of a circumstance where abortion could be prohibited.

Next on the list, but earlier in the article, Murray quotes a Republican pollster who worked on the poll:

McInturff adds that the abortion-related events and rhetoric over the past year—which included controversial remarks on abortion and rape by two Republican Senate candidates, as well as a highly charged debate over contraception—helped shape these changing poll numbers.

“The dialogue we have had in the last year has contributed ... to inform and shift attitudes.”

Clearly, McInturff has a different definition of “informing” than I do. The HHS contraception/abortifacient/sterilization mandate “informed” Americans of the non-existent War on Women, which was portrayed as an attack on the ability of women to buy and use contraception. Its accurate depiction as an attack on religious liberty was often ignored. Additionally, the two rape comments by Todd Akin and Richard Mourdock were two very different comments. Akin’s were made through objectionable scientific ignorance, whereas Mourdock’s were merely an inartful expression of belief in God’s love for all children, regardless of how the child was created. Yet the media “informed” the public the two were similar.

My third objection to the poll is how only four questions are asked regarding the legalization of abortion. People are asked whether it should be legal, illegal, legal in most cases, or illegal except for cases of rape, incest, and life of the mother. Yet as Steven Ertelt pointed out last week, a much more comprehensive (and honest) Marist Poll showed different results:

Four decades after the Supreme Court’s controversial decision in Roe v. Wade, a new Marist poll provides more details about Americans’ attitude on abortion, with 83 percent favoring significant restrictions. The poll reveals that support for significant abortion restrictions has increased by four points since last year—rising from 79 percent to 83 percent.

Looking at abortion in views in general, 10 percent believe abortion should never be permitted; 12 percent believe abortion should be allowed only to save the life of the mother; 34 percent would restrict abortion only to cases of rape or incest, or to save the life of the mother; and 27 percent would limit abortion to—at most—the first three months of pregnancy.

Few Americans take the position of either President Barack Obama or Planned Parenthood, as only 11 percent would allow abortion at any time, while 6 percent would allow it during the first six months of pregnancy.

I am 100% in favor of the dialogue McInturff references in the NBC article, that is, open and honest dialogue based upon the facts of abortion. But to McInturff, NBC News, and most other mainstream media outlets, “dialogue” is about creating and disseminating deceptive pro-abortion perceptions of reality. That’s not dialogue - that’s propaganda.

ONE ABORTION EVERY 94 SECONDS

National Right to Life releases analysis of Planned Parenthood's Annual Report

A new analysis from National Right to Life finds that nearly 1 in every 9 women who go to a Planned Parenthood clinic have an abortion and that those clinics perform an abortion in the United States once every 94 seconds. Those revelations, among others were contained in a review of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America's (PPFA) 2011-2012 annual report conducted by National Right to Life Director of Education and Research Randall K. O'Bannon, Ph.D. Dr. O'Bannon is one of the right-to-life movement's most authoritative experts on the abortion giant.

“By their own numbers, Planned Parenthood continues to show that they are deeply entrenched in the business of abortion,” said Dr. O'Bannon. “In 2011, Planned Parenthood clinics performed 333,964 abortions. Even as current data indicate the total number of abortions in the U.S. has been going down, Planned Parenthood keeps increasing its share of the abortion industry performing well over 25% of the annual estimated total of abortions performed in the United States.”

Dr. O'Bannon's analysis also revealed:

- * At going rates for a standard surgical abortion performed at 10 weeks ($451), the 333,964 abortions Planned Parenthood performed represent an income of at least $150.6 million. (Collectively, the organization showed nearly $1.2 billion in revenues with more than 45% of that ($542.4 million) coming in the form of “Government Health Services Grants and Reimbursements.”

- * Planned Parenthood increased their “adoption referrals to other agencies”—to 2,300. Even so, abortions at Planned Parenthood still outnumbered adoption referrals by a 145-to-1 margin.
- * Birth control, breast exams/care, and cancer screenings (that Planned Parenthood touted as major issues during the 2012 election campaign) actually decreased while abortions reached their all time record.
- * Prenatal care—offered at only a handful of PPFA clinics to begin with—dropped for a second year in a row, a perfect illustration of how tenuous Planned Parenthood's commitment to a woman's full range of “reproductive options” truly is.

Dr. O'Bannon's complete article is available here: <http://nrlc.co/VmARyk>

“Planned Parenthood continues to be the single-largest abortion provider in the United States. And regardless of what they say, their data and their deeds show that abortion continues to take up a very large percentage of their operations and focus,” O'Bannon concluded.

A Prime Time Abortion and a Broken-Hearted Father

By Lauren Enriquez

Tuesday night's episode of a popular prime time television show, Parenthood, dealt with the tragedy of fathers being legally excluded from the abortion decision. In the episode, Drew, a high school senior who is madly in love with his girlfriend, Amy, is shocked by the news that Amy has unexpectedly become pregnant. Amy's attitude throughout the episode is one of despair and stress. Drew, in spite of being confused and overwhelmed, remains supportive and loving of Amy while simultaneously developing an unspoken affection for his child.

Drew tells Amy that he wants to support her no matter what she decides to do about the pregnancy. He repeatedly insists that he loves her enough to support their new family regardless of hardships that may come their way. However, Amy becomes like a stone wall. Lyrics in the background aptly describe her demeanor: [she is] colder than a wave in the Arctic Ocean. A baby, she believes, will destroy her life.

Besides her confused and vulnerable boyfriend, the only resource she goes to for help is the local Planned Parenthood center. During her consultation with Planned Parenthood, adoption and parenting are coldly mentioned as options, but, as in reality, the abortion provider does not elaborate on those options.

Abortion counselors are notorious for presenting a one-sided view of the options: they have a reputation for leaving parents with the impression that abortion is their only option, and Parenthood captured this reality well. “Planned Parenthood's mission is to pressure as many women into having an abortion as it can,” Catherine Anthony Adair, a former counselor from the business, confesses.

Kudos to the show, also, for depicting the pain felt by mothers and fathers after their children are aborted. Unlike what so many prime time television shows try to dupe viewers into thinking, a woman does not usually walk away from her appointment with a sigh of relief and a fresh spring in her step. She goes home a broken woman, and this is exactly what happened to Amy.

Finally, the show realistically portrays a loving father's reaction to the death of his child: Drew is crushed. The cameras fade out on the closing image of a broken-hearted young father sobbing hopelessly in his mom's arms.

This is reality. This is what abortion looks like when all is said and done. Fathers have no legal rights in the decision to keep or abort their own children. They have no say in a mother's choice, even though they are equally responsible for the child's conception.

Killing Children by Guns is Tragic, But What About Abortion?

By Louis Kavanaugh Jr.
President of Daviess County Right To Life

We were all horrified and saddened at the taking of innocent lives in the shooting at Sandy Hook Elementary School in Connecticut, but isn't it amazing the liberal media and so many liberal leaders in our country are outraged and wanting more gun control laws, but when it comes to taking the lives of the unborn, they support abortion and do everything they can to promote abortion in this country.

All life is precious, the young, the old and the defenseless, but these people have a double standard. Now they are on this kick for more gun control. Could it be the problem really is that we have lost the value of life in this country? We have taken Prayer, God and the Commandments out of our schools and work place; we have turned away from God and made our own commandants as we see fit.

Let us continue to pray for this country and our leaders that they will see the light and respect all God's People, the born and those to be born that are in the womb. Let us continue to pray that our citizens in this country will turn back to God.

Let Us Pray!

Speaker Announced for Right To Life Banquet Set for Thursday October 3

At the regular meeting on Thursday January 31 the Right To Life Board approved the Speaker for the Banquet this year and it will be Dr. Grant Clark a former abortionist who saw the error of his ways and is now trying to correct those mistakes.

While practicing as a family doctor in Eureka CA (1970), he began taking courses on abortion given by Planned Parenthood in nearby San Francisco. He was influenced by Planned Parenthood's propaganda, which was "if there were no unwanted children, there would be no abuse." Just a few years after finishing medical school, he began committing abortions. He only recently broke his silence about that dark chapter in his long medical career, because, he explained, "What the Lord has put me through ... was gradual. ... It takes courage to admit you were a murderer."

Dr. Clark stopped committing abortions in 1972—a year before two tragic U.S. Supreme Court rulings decriminalized abortion nationwide. After he renounced abortion, he responded to an advertisement for a position as a family doctor in the small town of Benton in a quiet corner of rural Pennsylvania—far removed from the traumas he had experienced as a West Coast abortionist. He had planned to stay in the area for only a year, but ended up staying for more than two decades and also helped pioneer a new Christian faith community there. After retiring from private practice, he worked in the prison medical system a number of years. We feel Dr. Clark has a powerful story to tell about abortion and his conversion to the pro-life movement. Please keep the date open in October for this powerful testimony.

Baby Sucking Its Thumb in the Womb

When the new administration took office, they said their first priority was to pass a law that will remove all restrictions on abortion. By doing this on the federal level, they would remove all restrictions on abortion, and the Federal government would now be in control of the abortion issue. All Hospitals would be required to close or lose funding if they did not perform abortions. Tax payers would once again be required to fund abortions. Some Churches are now joining us in this effort, and we wish they had informed their members of this before the last election as this effort has become necessary only because of the election of Barak Obama. The Pro-Life Movement had warned voters and churches before the election this could happen, and now some churches suddenly realize their silence or lack of action on this matter has led to this emergency. What can we do to prevent this from happening? Contact your Federal elected officials (Senators and Congressman) and ask them to vote against all Abortion related bills. This will mean no choice for the children that will be killed by abortion. For Addresses of our Elected Officials, see page seven of the Newsletter..
