President Donald Trump Takes Office on January 20 and Goes Right to Work Dismantling Abortion Policies of the Biden Administration! By Louis Kavanaugh Jr.

Donald Trump was sworn in as the 47th President on Jan. 20 and got to work right away. He signed executive orders on many fronts, but one that pleased the pro-life community was the pardoning of the pro-lifers who were unjustly in prison for praying at abortion clinics. Just as we suspected, Donald Trump, who did not campaign as a strong pro-life candidate, did not waste much time in appointing pro-life people to key positions in his administration. He shut down a web site that the Biden Administration had put up to promote abortion. President Trump has made many appointments and executive orders that will help the pro-life movement.

Other pro-life actions by President Trump: According to LifeNews Web Site, Biden wanted to spend $50 Million on free condoms for Gaza, Trump shut it down. Also, President Trump tells congress to protect babies who survive abortions; this is the opposite of what the Biden Administration did, they let them die.

Also, Vice President JD Vance spoke to the “March for Life Rally” on January 24 in person, while President Donald Trump spoke by a recorded message. It is so good to see the new administration speaking and taking pro-life actions.

We look forward to more appointments and initiatives that will help the pro-life movement. When President Donald Trump was in the White House from 2017-2021, he was one of the most pro-life presidents ever. He appointed people to key positions in his administration that were pro-life people and he appointed pro-life judges to the federal judicial system and to the U.S. Supreme Court and worked with pro-life legislators to pass pro-life legislation.

Even though he did not run for president as a strong pro-life person, we believe he will be very receptive to our pro-life proposals. I think Donald Trump realized that he may not have been elected if it had not been for the pro-life movement and the good Christian people who voted for him. This will help to stop the WOKE policies and the pro-abortion policies of the Biden/Harris administration.

We are grateful for the many people in Daviess and surrounding Counties who voted pro-life and helped to elect pro-life people across the state and nation. Now is the time to get to work and turn this country back to God and get something done. May God bless America!

Governor Mike Braun Takes Office January 13, Others Sworn In

By Louis Kavanaugh Jr.

On Monday January 13, pro-life former U.S. Senator Mike Braun was sworn in as the new governor here in Indiana. Micah Beckwith was also sworn in as the Lt. Governor and Todd Rokita as Indiana Attorney General. All these men are strongly pro-life. Governor Mike Braun has already signed an executive order which will mandate the Indiana Dept. of Health to report abortions performed in Indiana and report them to the general public.

Former Indiana Congressman Jim Banks was sworn in in Washington D.C. as the new U.S. Senator here in Indiana replacing Mike Braun who is now the Indiana Governor. Banks was sworn in on January 6. At the same time Mark Messmer was sworn in as the new congressman from the 8th District replacing Larry Bucshon who decided to retire. All of these men are strongly pro-life!

Democrats/Liberal Media Back to their Old Ways!

By Louis Kavanaugh Jr.

If we expected the liberal media to change their ways and just report the news without adding their personal opinion or slanting the news to their viewpoint, well that is not happening. Examples of this are the abortion issue and the illegal migrant issue. While the nation watched on some channels the massive crowd that attended the pro-life March for Life, the liberal networks failed to mention it, or if they did it was a few seconds. Many times in the past they would give more coverage to individuals giving their pro-abortion viewpoint. While the crowd was huge this year in Washington D.C. and President Donald Trump addressed the crowd by closed circuit and Vice President JD Vance addressed the crowd in person, nothing from the liberal press. Another example of the liberal coverage is that with deportation of the migrants that have committed crime in America, the liberal press is concerned about them being deported. They are silent on the crimes they have committed, but they are more concerned with them being deported. It is likewise for the Democrats who remain silent with all the crime from the illegal migrants but go on liberal talk shows and howl about the poor migrants that are being deported.

As I mentioned in a previous newsletter, I was very suspicious if the liberal media and the Democrats would change their nasty ways and finally realize why the American people voted them out of office (out of the majority in the White House, the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House). So I guess when you hear the liberal media and the Democrats cry and carry on, I guess we will just have to consider the source and work with the president on trying to "Make America Great Again and Pro-Life Again!" We need to just consider the source.

Indiana Legislature: New Session Began in January

by Louis Kavanaugh Jr.

The new session of the Indiana Legislature began in early January and we don't expect a lot of pro-life legislation. The reason being both the Indiana House and the Indiana Senate have a solid pro-life majority and the State of Indiana already has strong pro-life laws in place, and that has led to very few abortions performed in Indiana. This came to pass after the U.S. Supreme Court overturned Roe v Wade in June of 2022. Indiana then went to work to change their laws and restricted abortions and shut down all abortion clinics. The only way you can get an abortion is the life of the mother.

Daviess-Pike, Martin County Right to Life Banquet Speaker Announced for October 2, 2025

By Louis Kavanaugh Jr.

Missy Martinez-Stone has been confirmed as the speaker for the banquet in October of this year. She is a nationally recognized expert on ensuring the accountability of abortion facilities for their unsafe and illegal practices, ultimately leading to their closure. In 2018, she was asked to help develop an innovative women's advocacy organization, resulting in the launch of Reprotection in January 2020. Their organization has since evolved into the Center for Client Safety, with Missy Martinez-Stone serving as the President and CEO. Through her dedicated efforts, Missy has played a pivotal role in suspending the operations of four abortion facilities within the past two years while concurrently spearheading ongoing investigations in more than 30 states.

Previously, Missy served as the National Field Director for Students for Life of America, where she doubled the number of student groups served and facilitated Students for Life in equipping over 1,000 student groups. Additionally, Missy served on the board of Choices Women's Center, a pregnancy center in Fredericksburg, Virginia. Her expertise and achievements have garnered media attention, with features in prominent outlets such as the New York Times, the Washington Post, Associated Press, the Christian Broadcasting Network, and numerous other media platforms.

We are pleased to make this announcement and ask all our friends in the Right to Life Organization to reserve this date. Ticket sales will begin around September 1 of this year and you can get them from our ticket sellers or contact me at 812-486-3658. We appreciate your past support and hope you will continue. We hope to see you then.

President Trump Signs Pardons for 23 Pro-Life Americans

By Steven Ertelt, LifeNews

President Donald Trump has signed an executive order pardoning the 23 pro-life Americans Joe Biden imprisoned for protesting abortion. “This is a great honor to sign this,” Trump said, condemning Biden’s lawfare, especially targeted at “elderly people.”

Trump granted pardons for 23 pro-life advocates who faced weaponized prosecutions brought against them by the Biden Department of Justice under the Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances (FACE) Act.

Earlier this month, Thomas More Society attorneys submitted to the Trump administration formal requests for presidential pardons on behalf of 21 of those pro-life advocates who have been unjustly prosecuted, convicted, and in several cases, imprisoned, by the Biden DOJ. In their letter submitted to President Donald J. Trump, Thomas More Society attorneys urged “that these pro-life Americans are deserving of full and unconditional pardons.” The communicated pardon request package included 21 individual pardon requests, one for each pro-life advocate, outlining the specific facts of each case, their upstanding personal and moral character, and the reasons why President Trump should grant a presidential pardon.

The president also addressed the March for Life participants via a video message.

As LifeNews has extensively reported, pro-life activists await pardons from President Donald Trump after Biden misused the FACE Act and other laws to put them in prison for minor trespassing misdemeanors.

“Today, freedom rings in our great nation. The heroic peaceful pro-lifers unjustly imprisoned by Biden’s Justice Department will now be freed and able to return home to their families, eat a family meal, and enjoy the freedom that should have never been taken from them in the first place,” reacted Steve Crampton, Thomas More Society Senior Counsel. “These heroic peaceful pro-lifers were treated shamefully by Biden’s DOJ, with many of them branded felons and losing many rights that we take for granted as American citizens. Today, their precious freedom is restored. What happened to them can never be erased, but today’s pardons are a huge step towards restoring justice. Thank you to President Trump and his team for righting these grievous wrongs of the previous administration.”

“Today is a new day for the pardoned pro-life advocates who have suffered FBI raids, federal prosecutions, and severe punishment for peacefully and courageously witnessing for life. We thank President Trump for keeping his promise to these pro-life mothers, fathers, grandparents, pastors, and priests,” added Peter Breen, Thomas More Society Executive Vice President and Head of Litigation. “What happened to these peaceful pro-life individuals must never happen again. We urge Congress to act swiftly in repealing the FACE Act to make sure that

President Trump Takes First Step to Overturn Joe Biden’s Abortion Agenda

By Ben Johnson, LifeNews

Among its first acts in office, the Trump-Vance administration closed a federal government website opened by the Biden administration to promote abortion-on-demand at taxpayers’ expense. Users noted the website ReproductiveRights.gov had gone offline on Monday afternoon, shortly after Chief Justice John Roberts swore in Donald Trump as the 47th president of the United States.

“Reproductive healthcare, including access to birth control and safe and legal abortion care, is an essential part of your health and well-being,” the moribund website claimed. It also erroneously insisted the abortion pill, mifepristone, “is safe and effective when used as directed,” although mifepristone produced 35 emergency room visits for every 100 abortions in 2015.

The Biden-Harris administration announced the website’s debut on August 3, 2022, in response to the Supreme Court’s pro-life ruling in Dobbs v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization. The website came amid a flurry of measures to promote abortion-on-demand in spite of the Supreme Court ruling. The administration also formed the Reproductive Rights Task Force, led by then-Associate Attorney General Vanita Gupta, inside the Justice Department to crack down on peaceful sidewalk counselors.

The federal page linked to a website that referred readers to a list of abortionists in their state or region. “If you need help paying for an abortion, abortion funds may be able to provide financial assistance,” the federal website stated. Pro-life advocates greeted the taxpayer-funded website’s closure with enthusiasm. “Could this be the start of Making America Pro-Life Again?!” asked Kristan Hawkins of Students for Life of America. “Let’s go!” enthused the Texas Alliance for Life.

The website went offline the same day news broke that Cecile Richards, the CEO of Planned Parenthood Federation of America from 2006 to 2018, died at the age of 67 from a glioblastoma, an aggressive form of brain cancer. During her 12 years leading the nation’s largest abortion business, “Richards increased the number of abortions Planned Parenthood carried out each year by almost 70,000,” wrote Mary Szoeh, director of the Center for Human Dignity at Family Research Council.

Richards presided over Planned Parenthood when undercover investigative journalists David Daleiden and Sandra Merritt exposed the group’s harvesting and sale of aborted babies’ organs and tissue. Richards’s replacement, Leana Wen, advocated for vaccine passports during the COVID-19 pandemic shortly after leaving Planned Parenthood to become a CNN analyst.

This Baby Was Saved from Abortion When a Doctor Reversed the Abortion Pill

Gayle Irwin, LifeNews

Sierra felt as though her life was like a tornado, a whirlwind spinning out of control. Her husband had walked out on her and their four children. She wasn't sure how she was going to care for her young family. Add to these stresses the unexpected loss of her sister.

"I was almost in survival mode," Sierra said.

Sierra sought comfort with a man and became pregnant.

Fear overtook the Ohio woman, and she made an appointment at a Planned Parenthood two hours away from her home.

"I felt like this was my only option," she said. However, she said she prayed for a sign, for something that would tell her to turn around and not go through with the abortion. But she felt and saw nothing.

When she walked into the abortion facility, she saw 20 or more women waiting.

"It was quiet," she said of the atmosphere. "Nobody's speaking, no one is on their phones. It was just a very, very heavy feeling." Sierra was told the first pill she took would stop her unborn child's heartbeat, and when she asked if "it would look like a baby" when she "passed it," the person at the abortion center said, 'No.' Sierra believed she was about 10 weeks along.

After taking the first pill, grief and regret overwhelmed her.

"I wanted to cut it out of my throat," she recalled. "I felt like I really messed up."

Sierra said she contacted her OB-GYN and asked if there was something that could be done to stop the abortion pill from taking effect, and her doctor told her there was nothing she could do.

Sierra felt remorse for making the decision to abort her child. As she left the Planned Parenthood parking lot, she noticed a sign on the ground. She stopped to read it.

"It said, 'If you've taken the first pill, it's not too late,'" Sierra said. "There was the sign I was looking for."

She went online and searched the internet using the exact wording she read, and the Abortion Pill Rescue® Network (APRN) captured her attention. She called the hotline number and asked for information, explaining she was "in a bad place."

"And the sweetest voice on the phone said, 'We can help you,'" Sierra said.

Finding hope

She was connected to Pregnancy Decision Health Centers (PDHC) in Columbus, Ohio, one of hundreds of pregnancy medical clinics around the country that offers Abortion Pill Reversal (APR) services and the closest to where she lived. One of the nurses spoke with her on the phone and offered to pray with her, noting "it's a critical and beautiful time" to interact with women learning about APR. That prayer made an impact on Sierra.

"There was no shame, no condemnation," Sierra said in a video message for PDHC. "It was just, 'Are you okay?' And that's huge." An appointment was made for Sierra to visit PDHC the next day for an ultrasound and to determine if the baby still had a heartbeat. She was told the staff would be praying for her and her baby, and that night, Sierra also prayed for her child to live.

"There is hope and help available, and we are here to answer any questions, provide support and connect any woman seeking reversal with the care she needs to attempt to continue her pregnancy," said Christa Brown, BSN, RN, senior director of Medical Impact for Heartbeat International. Heartbeat manages the APRN, a network of more than 1,400 healthcare professionals, pregnancy centers, hospitals, and pharmacists that administer the APR protocol.

APR works by countering the effects of the first abortion pill mifepristone with progesterone, the hormone in a pregnant woman's system necessary for pregnancy to thrive. It is an updated application of a decades-old treatment used to combat miscarriage. "Our network has assisted women in 93 different countries and all states in the U.S.," she said. "Our data shows more than 5,000 women have successfully reversed mifepristone and had healthy children."

In addition to the efficacy, Brown remarked on the safety of APR treatment. "Since the progesterone counteracts the harmful effects of the mifepristone, we do not see ill effects on the mothers and no increased birth defects for the babies born after successful reversal," she said, Sierra's little girl is one of those thousands of babies saved from abortion by APR.

The little one in the womb did have a heartbeat when Sierra went to PDHC the day after calling the APRN hotline number. "God's goodness," Sierra pondered ... "He didn't have to let me keep her."

APR and answered prayer

PDHC staff put her on progesterone per the APR protocol and checked on her for several weeks through phone calls and text messages. The center covered Sierra and her unborn baby in prayer. That support and care also positively impacted Sierra, and her doctor, who didn't know about APR at the time, was happy at the outcome as well.

"She couldn't wait to deliver her," Sierra recalled. "She was astounded."

Poll Confirms Majority of Americans Support Pro-Life Policies

By Michael New Ph.D.

On January 23, the Knights of Columbus released their annual poll on sanctity-of-life issues. This poll, which the Knights conduct in conjunction with Marist College, is always welcomed by pro-lifers.

Unlike other surveys conducted by professional survey research firms, the Knights of Columbus/Marist poll asks about conscience rights, pregnancy help centers, and other issues of particular interest to people in the pro-life movement. Very often, the Knights of Columbus/Marist poll shows very strong public support for a range of incremental pro-life laws.

This year's poll was no exception. The Knights of Columbus/Marist poll found that, among over 1,387 adults surveyed, clear majorities opposed taxpayer funding of abortion both at home and overseas. Conscience rights polled well, as 62 percent felt that medical professionals should not be legally required to perform abortions.

Additionally, 63 percent of Americans felt that an in-person medical exam should be required if a woman wants to obtain a chemical abortion. Finally, a whopping 83 percent of adults support the work of pro-life pregnancy help centers.

Overall, the Knights of Columbus/Marist poll revealed a great deal of stability in public attitudes toward abortion during the past year. Interestingly, the poll found gains in public support for some pro-life policies. There was greater opposition to public funding of abortion both at home and abroad. Since 2024, there has been a gain of two percentage points in support of conscience rights of health care professionals.

This is important. During the 2024 election, Kamala Harris and other Democrats clearly prioritized abortion, spending millions of dollars on the issue. This poll shows that support for many pro-life policies is very durable.

As pro-lifers return home from Friday's March for Life, we should take heart. During his first few days in office, President Trump has taken some valuable steps in building a culture of life. He has pardoned the 23 pro-lifers who were jailed for FACE Act violations. He has also restored the Mexico City policy, which prevents U.S. foreign aid dollars from going to overseas entities that perform or promote abortions. This new Knights of Columbus/Marist poll contains more good news. It shows the incoming Trump administration that potential policy steps to strengthen conscience rights and limit chemical abortions will enjoy strong public support.

NBC Refuses to Cover March for Life Despite 100,000 Participants

Alex Christy, LifeNews

A charitable analysis of ABC, NBC, and CBS's Friday evening and Saturday morning broadcasts would find that the six shows combined to give the 52nd annual March for Life in Washington, D.C., a measly 48 seconds of coverage.

Neither ABC's Saturday edition of Good Morning America, NBC's Today, nor CBS Saturday Morning acknowledged the rally's existence, meaning all the coverage came on Friday evening.

NBC Nightly News also skipped the rally altogether, giving NBC zero combined seconds. Still, zero seconds is somehow an improvement for NBC because last year, not only did they omit the March for Life, they actively promoted pro-abortion high schoolers.

CBS Evening News was only aired on the West Coast due to golf coverage and on the network's online streaming service. Host Nancy Cordes only gave the rally 21 seconds, "Thousands of anti-abortion rights activists converged on the nation's capital today for the annual March for Life. President Trump addressed the crowd in a video while Vice President JD Vance spoke in person. Activists are encouraged by Trump's election victory and his decision to pardon protesters who blocked access to abortion clinics."

Meanwhile, ABC World News Tonight anchor David Muir found 27 seconds to discuss the rally, "In Washington today, thousands of people turned out for the annual March for Life rally. The first march since Republicans won the White House and both houses of Congress and 24 hours after President Trump issued full pardons to 23 anti-abortion rights activists convicted of blockading abortion clinics. Vice President Vance and Congressional leaders addressed the crowd. In a prerecorded message, Trump pledged to push for further restrictions on abortion."

What Muir and Cordes left out of their mentions of Trump's pardons is that the Biden Administration not only went after communist gulag survivors and other elderly protesters but insisted on harsher-than-usual sentences in order to make a point.

Here are More Pro-Life Actions President Trump Can Take

By Scott Baker, Vice President of Public Affairs at Choose Life Coalition

The Trump-Vance Administration secured many pro-life victories in just the first few days being in office. For those keeping track at home, Trump signed executive orders to: Eliminate taxpayer funding of both foreign and domestic abortions and clarify that life begins at conception.

He also pardoned and secured the release of 23 pro-life activists whose only “crime” was peacefully protesting outside of abortion clinics and has directed the DOJ to limit enforcement of the FACE Act that wrongfully put those pro-life activists in jail in the first place. President Trump made a video appearance at the March for Life Rally and Vice President Vance spoke in person as his first official appearance as Vice President.

These actions to protect life in the first week of the new administration have breathed life into the pro-life movement. They are key victories to celebrate, while also acknowledging more work remains. The Administration must make it a priority to foster our nation’s great strength: families and children.

To build upon these common sense moves, here are key priorities that must be addressed this year: Title X Reform

The Title X grant program should no longer be a backdoor for federal funding of abortion providers. Most American taxpayers oppose their money being used to support abortion. Abortion undermines the American family, weakens communities, and fuels criminal activities like human trafficking and domestic violence. A strong nation begins with strong families, and these policies reflect that truth.

Protect Pro-Life Americans from Discrimination

The Biden administration weaponized the Department of Justice against pro-life advocates, creating an environment of fear and hostility. To reverse this, the Trump administration should stop the weaponization of the FACE Act once and for all. Pro-life Americans should never be persecuted for their values.

Federal Funding for Pregnancy Centers

Pregnancy help centers and maternity homes provide irreplaceable support to women navigating unplanned pregnancies. These centers are vital lifelines, offering compassionate care, practical resources, and emotional encouragement that empower women to choose life and build bright futures. Unlike abortion clinics, these pregnancy centers do not financially benefit from a woman’s decision and yet are often the targets of attack and smear campaigns. Instituting federal funding for basic services will ensure these centers can expand their impact, continuing to serve as trusted pillars of hope and support for countless women and families.

A New Vision for Supporting Women

To solidify his legacy, President Trump must go beyond reinstating previous policies. His administration can simultaneously protect unborn life and send a strong, unwavering message of support to women. It is not an either-or stance; both goals can and should coexist.

A critical focus of this administration should be addressing the financial and social challenges that push women toward abortion. According to a Guttmacher Institute study, a staggering 73% of women cite financial concerns as a major factor in their decision to seek an abortion. Additionally, the Turnaway Study reveals that 25% of women describe their abortions as “unwanted” or “coerced,” while 43% say their abortions were “accepted but inconsistent with their values and preferences.”

Confronting these realities requires comprehensive social policies and cultural dialogue that recognizes the complexities of unplanned pregnancies. We can significantly reduce the number of abortions in America by informing public opinion that many women choose abortion because they feel they have no other choice. By addressing these challenges, we can empower women with real support and alternatives.

Instead of establishing task forces and websites to promote abortion access as the Biden administration did, President Trump should replace these initiatives with programs that provide meaningful support to women and ensure they are widely publicized through robust public awareness campaigns. Critical areas are transportation assistance, affordable childcare, and housing support—practical solutions for pregnant women. Expanding the role of pregnancy centers and maternity homes and equipping them with the resources to effectively serve women in their communities must also be a central focus. These actions would demonstrate a commitment to empowering women with real, life-affirming options.

A Pro-Family Agenda for a Stronger America

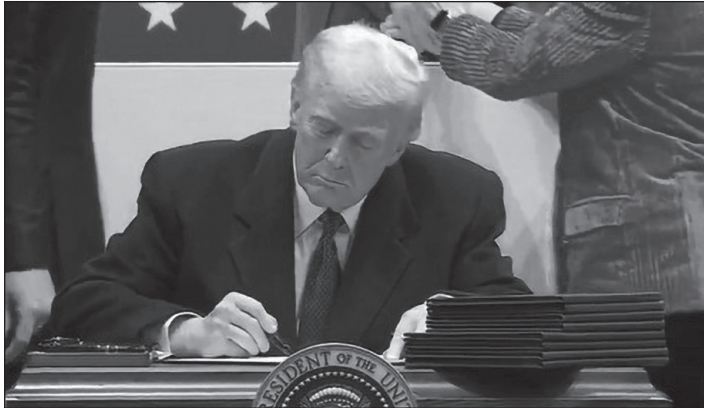

The Trump-Vance administration has a defining opportunity to reshape what it means to be pro-life—not just in words, but in action. Defending the unborn and uplifting women are not competing priorities; they are inseparable pillars of a thriving nation. A truly pro-life America ensures that no woman feels abandoned, no child is seen as a burden, and no family is left without support.

Now is the time to build a culture where life is embraced, families are fortified, and women are empowered to choose life—not out of fear, but with confidence and hope. This is the vision that will shape a stronger, more compassionate America, one rooted in the dignity and sanctity of life for all.

President Trump Signs Executive Orders

Bradley Mattes, Life Issues Institute

Having attended several presidential inaugurations, it's always a thrill to see your choice take the reins of power. President Trump, being true to his word, signed many executive orders to both reverse actions by Biden and further the well-being of our nation. Some of those actions involved the abortion issue. A government website promoting abortion has been shut down. The president also pulled America out of the World Health Organization.

It is estimated that eleven percent of its budget involved promoting abortion. I expect the imminent pardoning of peaceful pro-life protestors cruelly jailed under the Biden administration, including an elderly holocaust survivor. There are numerous things the president can do to further the cause for life. I'll keep you posted.

President Trump's cabinet picks are important to the lives of unborn babies. I'll be educating you where key nominees stand on abortion. Lori Chavez-DeRemer for Secretary of Labor has a good voting record in Congress. Matthew Whitaker as US Ambassador to NATO is strongly pro-life. South Dakota Governor Kristi Noem for Homeland Security is strongly pro-life. Scott Turner for HUD Secretary, strongly pro-life. John Ratcliff as CIA Director, strongly pro-life. Tulsi Gabbard as Director of National Intelligence, mostly pro-abortion in Congress. Marty Makary as FDA Commissioner, a pro-life surgical oncologist. Brooke Rollins as Secretary of Agriculture, pro-life.

We've posted details on all Trump's picks and a downloadable prayer for them. Visit today's broadcast link at life issues dot org.

As our nation turns its attention to Donald Trump's inauguration, pro-life Americans are wondering what to expect from the man who was once hailed as the most pro-life president in American history. In the political realm, there's a saying that "Personnel is Policy," and it's true. That's why I'm optimistic about how the nation's unborn children and their parents will fare under the next president. We've analyzed where Donald Trump's cabinet and other key personnel stand on abortion. My estimation is that approximately 70% are pro-life 23% are unknown and 7% are pro-abortion.

the Justice Department can never again weaponize this law to target peaceful pro-lifers with severe charges." According to President Trump, "I will govern by a simple motto: Promises made, promises kept," vowed Trump shortly after winning the 2024 presidential election.

The Biden-Harris administration has not prosecuted anyone under the FACE Act for the 436 church attacks that took place last year, even though pro-life pregnancy resource centers are 22 times more likely to be attacked than abortion facilities.

"While Biden's prosecutors almost entirely ignored the fire-bombing and vandalism of hundreds of pro-life churches and pregnancy centers, they viciously pursued pro-life Americans, obtaining convictions against them under the federal 'FACE Act' and the Ku Klux Klan Act's 'Conspiracy Against Rights' felony provisions. But these individuals participated in mere peaceable civil disobedience, in the heralded tradition of the American Civil Rights activists.

Peaceable actions like these usually merit, at worst, a minor misdemeanor conviction," it states. These prosecutions represent a significant escalation of lawfare and weaponization of government against Christians. "Neither the Clinton DOJ nor the Obama DOJ dared use this plainly inapplicable law against pro-life advocates."

Erin Hawley, senior counsel for the religious legal advocacy firm Alliance Defending Freedom, told the Washington Examiner that the FACE act "was completely weaponized by the Biden DOJ."
